

GERMANY ADMITS RED RESISTANCE MAKES WINTER CAMPAIGN IN RUSSIA NECESSARY

Two Germans Who Helped FBI Meet In Federal Court

Played Together in Ruhr Before Coming to United States

By PAT McGRADY

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—More than thirty years ago, William G. Sebald and Walter Nipken played together on the streets of Mülheim, Ruhr, Germany.

Today they met again, for the first time in more than twenty years, in Brooklyn Federal Court. Each had been active in American counter-espionage activities and each was credited by the government with uncovering a spy ring.

They were star government witnesses at the trial of sixteen men charged with espionage conspiracy. In addition, seventeen defendants have pleaded guilty.

Both helped FBI

Nipken, like Sebald, joined the aged spy ring under FBI investigations, fed it information of doubtful value and finally, cracked it.

Sebald, principal witness for three weeks, had told of his assignment by the German Gestapo, his building of a "spy" radio station with FBI help, his hoarding of Gestapo funds while alleged spies here pined against their German masters and of information gathered on America's modern war machines for transmission to Germany.

Today, Nipken took the stand and told of an alleged second ring. He testified that, as a highly responsible tool engineer in the airplane parts factory of Air Associates, Inc., Bendix, N. J., he was addressed last Dec. 28 by a machinist, Earl Reuper, now a defendant.

Reuper came to my home," Nipken testified. "He approached me with plans, drawings and information on aircraft and defense, which he said he would send to Germany."

Bandits Get Box Of Cheap Cigars; Overlook $2,300

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26 (AP)—A box of five-cent cigars fooled two robbers today and saved Paul Visconti $2,300.

He withdrew the money from a bank to cash pay checks at a tavern he operates. The men held him up in his automobile and fled with a box they thought contained the money.

They got the cigars. The money was safe in Visconti's pocket.

Three Frenchmen Guillotined for Paris Disorders

Paris Tribunal Seeks To Show Germans Order Will Be Maintained

VICHY, UNOCCUPIED FRANCE, Sept. 26 (AP)—Three Frenchmen died by the guillotine today in the courtyard of Santa prison in Paris, condemned by a new tribunal of state which was set up to show the Germans that the French themselves can crush prolonged unrest from a hidden opposition.

The three, all formerly identified with French Communism, were Adolphe Guyot, once the Communist leader of the Seine (Paris) department; Jacques Wook and ex-Deputy Jean Cathelais.

The tribunal is expected to issue new condemnations shortly, among them the former Communist Deputy Gabriel Peri, whose case is believed already decided. Another under death sentence, Fresco Pissardi, remains at large.

Convicted Secretly
All those sentenced so far by the tribunal of state were convicted in secret sessions for fomenting or organizing disorders. Those guillotined today were the first it had sentenced to death.

Through the operations of this court, which is separate from anti-Communist tribunals also operating in Paris and elsewhere, the Vichy government hopes to curb the spread of German reprisals against French hostages for attacks on Germans and other manifestations of opposition.

Pierre Pucheu, Vichy's dynamic minister of the interior, is in Paris trying to sell the Germans on the idea of stopping these reprisals—which already have cost thirty-five lives—until the new French courts can have a chance to get things under control.

Excitement in Vichy

In Vichy itself, a flurry of scattered activity indicated to some observers that something was brewing. Some of its manifestations:

1. A conference between Vice-Premier Jean Darlan and German Embassy Secretary Rahn, who came to Vichy from his new post on the Nazi diplomatic staff in Paris. Rahn was invited to dine tonight with Chief of State Petain.

2. A round of conferences here by General Henri Dentz over the disposition of the troops who were defeated under his command in the Syrian war with the British and De Gaulle's. It is now believed these (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Priorities Plans Will Be Changed, Nelson Declares

Defense Industries Will Get Allocations of Raw Materials

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—A forthcoming major revision of the priorities system, under which defense industries will get specific allocations of raw materials instead of so-called preference ratings, was outlined today by Donald M. Nelson.

The executive director of the newly-created supply priorities and allocations board, testifying in behalf of speedy enactment of the administration's price control bill, said the new system still was under study but asserted he thought its adoption unavoidable.

Nelson Uncertain

Nelson told newsmen he was not quite sure exactly how the plan could be carried out, but said he intended to use the agricultural implements industry as "a guinea pig" on which to test his idea.

Under the existing priorities system, he explained to the committee, firms are given certain ratings, such as I-A, in the order of their importance to the defense program and the civilian population.

"But a manufacturer can't operate unless he knows how much material he's going to get and when he'll be able to get it," the former vice-president of Sears-Roebuck, Inc., said. "He can't get that information from a mere preference rating, because many other firms in the same business may have the same rating."

Where manufacturers find they can't get materials under their priority ratings, he went on, they come in and ask for a higher rating.

"When you get them all up to A-A ratings," he added, "you're right back where you started."

At the opening of his remarks, Nelson said that as a business man he was fundamentally opposed to price-fixing but declared that in the current emergency, he believed the administration's price-control bill should be enacted at once to prevent "an inflationary period that will completely destroy us."

1,000,000 WPA Workers To Get Increase in Pay

"Ten Per Cent Would Be Good Guess," Hunter Declares

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Howard O. Hunter, Works Projects commissioner, announced today he planned to raise the wages of over 1,000,000 WPA workers, to bring their earnings nearer into line with the increased cost of living.

Although giving no figure on the extent of such a raise, Hunter said ten per cent would be "a good guess."

"I think we can expect some action within thirty days," he told a press conference.

At the same time, Hunter said he expected WPA rolls to swell this winter due to "priorities" unemployment.

He added that the increases in WPA employment would be made despite stipulations in the last WPA appropriation that rolls should be kept within a 1,000,000 average over a year.

Hunter said WPA wages had been in effect for two years on the present scale, during which time, he said, industrial wages had increased thirty-two per cent and food prices had gone up fifteen per cent.

Present WPA scales run from $31.20 to $81.90 a month in the south up to a $39 minimum and a $94.90 maximum in the north.

Ginger Rogers Had Better Powder Nose

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26 (AP)—Ginger Rogers blushed today as she came back to Thomas Hart Benton School, which she once attended as Virginia McMab.

The tumult that greeted her appearance in assembly quelled suddenly—so suddenly one Fifth grader didn't realize this whispered comment could be heard throughout the room:

"She's pretty, but her nose is shiny."

TWO SHIPS BEACHED AFTER COLLISION AT NEW YORK

Sliced almost in two, the 6,624-ton tanker Robert E. Hopkins (left) is beached at Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, after a collision with the 10,500-ton collier Jason (right) in Ambrose Channel, New York. The prow of the big coastwise collier was badly smashed. The tanker was inbound and the collier heading out to sea when the crash occurred. No one was injured despite the violence of the collision.

Merchant Ships Being Produced In Rapid Time

Government Spokesmen Point to Latest Results with Pride

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Spokesmen for the army, the navy and the Maritime Commission hailed in speeches tonight this country's progress on providing merchant ships for the struggle against the Axis.

On the eve of "Liberty Fleet Day," when fourteen merchant vessels will slide down ways in the greatest mass launching since the first World war, they told of what had been done toward providing tonnage and what still had to be done.

"The commission," said Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, U. S. N., retired, chairman of the maritime commission, "is proud of the accomplishment made by the nation's shipbuilders during the early phase of the all-out effort which the president has asked every American to make."

Commission Not Satisfied
"But neither the ship-workers nor the commission are content. We all realize that more and still more merchant ships must be built to carry cargoes so vitally essential to the ultimate defeat of those aggressors who are threatening the liberty of all the peoples of the world."

Rear Admiral Samuel M. Robinson of the navy's bureau of ships called the launching of fourteen vessels in one day "a gesture which should definitely silence those critics in our midst who would have us believe that neglect of our defenses during the long years since 1919 placed us so far behind in the international race that it was useless for us to attempt to catch up."

Thousands of Germans Killed, Moscow Claims

MOSCOW, Saturday, Sept. 27 (AP)—German troops storming the approaches to the Crimea have been mowed down by the thousands and Red defenders still stand unbeaten outside Leningrad, Soviet war dispatches said today.

Repeated Nazi lunges on a narrow front protecting the Crimean naval bases were met by a deadly Soviet fire of machineguns, cannon and land mine explosions, and Red airmen also blasted the German infantry, these reports said. The battlefield was said to be strewn with Nazi dead.

The early morning communique again merely reported continued fighting along the entire front, but other dispatches said Russian troops successfully repulsed German attempts to cross the Volkov river 100 miles south of Leningrad.

Red airmen were credited officially with destroying 18 Nazi planes Wednesday with only twenty-nine Soviet losses.

More Germans Annihilated
On the Volkov the Germans forced a crossing at one place but were annihilated in seeking to form a bridgehead, the Soviets said.

In the outskirts of Leningrad itself, unending Red counter-attacks were said to be beating the Germans back despite the enormous and still growing pressure of the invaders.

Five more miles of bloody terrain along one of the city's approaches were bitterly regained, it was declared, and four more outlying Russian villages fell again into Soviet hands.

Semi-official acknowledgement that the German offensive was still rising in power, although still breaking upon the rock of Russian resistance, suggested that the Nazis had loosed their supreme offensive to date.

Bag 324 Nazi Planes
Leningrad's aerial defenders still in heavy action reported that in the ninety days of their struggle for the city they had shot down 324 German planes over its fronts.

German ground troops, it was declared, were trying every desperate expedient, even to sending battalions forward in suicidally close (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Army Life Praised By Draftee after He Is Discharged

Salesman, Disgruntled at First, Now Appreciates His Time in Camp

DALLAS, Sept. 26 (AP)—Eight months ago George Montgomery was drafted into the army from his $4,000-a-year salesman's job at Houston. He was disgruntled, thought it the worst break he'd ever had.

Last week he was discharged from Fort Bliss with other men over 28. Today, he told a gas company convention what those eight months had meant to him.

In February he was a flabby 206 pounds. Now he is 190 pounds of hard muscle. A throat wheeze has disappeared.

Furthermore:
"Anything that prompts an appreciation of your fellow man, no matter what his walk of life is, is certain to be a spiritual gain. We had a professor of psychology grubbing weeds alongside a Mexican truck driver who couldn't speak English. They got to be friends."

Red Assemble American Planes with Own Tools

LONDON, Saturday, Sept. 27 (AP)—The crew of a British coastal command plane, the first to fly into Russia as far as Moscow, reported today that with the home-made assembly tools the Russians had put a consignment of American-made warplanes into the air within four days of delivery.

The air ministry said the proper tools were due to arrive in a week or two.

The plane, carrying from one to three men each were sighted over an area of ten square miles north and west of Arbus.

The navy prepared to send out searching planes again at dawn tomorrow if the surface craft fail to find the men during the night.

Germans Hurl 70,000 Men into New Drive To Capture Rich Oil Fields

Terrific Battle Raging in Smash Eastward Toward Caucasus

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP)—German forces smashing eastward toward the Caucasus and Russian oil were said authoritatively tonight to have hurled 70,000 men into a sickle-like sweep aimed at disposing of the Crimea in passing.

A heavy battle has been raging nearly forty-eight hours, London sources said, with the Germans calling on waves of parachute troops to equalize the difficulties of the boggy terrain and the constriction of their tanks and infantrymen on the four-mile-wide isthmus of Perekop, which joins the Crimean peninsula to the Russian mainland.

Berlin Statement Prepares Public For a Long War Against Soviets

But Capture of More Than Half a Million Prisoners Is Claimed in Ukrainian Battles

BERLIN, Sept. 26 (AP)—The German nation was informed by word and deed tonight that the high command expects a winter campaign in the east, even as a new official reckoning put the toll of the Ukrainian Red army entrapment at more than half a million prisoners and said the total was "still growing."

The official news agency DNE, said that the Russians, by counter-attacks, now were testing the German front to find out where the next offensive thrusts might be expected, and added:

"Although the advance already has gone far, it is generally recognized that one cannot figure on German pressure against the Soviet armies letting up during the winter months."

At the same time dispatches from German-occupied Oslo told of a decree by which Norwegians must surrender wool blankets for use by the German army. Civilians and stores possessing such blankets must deliver them up by Sept. 30, on pain of prison sentences up to three years and heavy fines. Certain exceptions were made for persons living in northernmost areas and for areas hard-hit by war. The blankets will be paid for on a basis of German army appraisal.

Nine Shipwrecked Men Seen Adrift

Located by Patrol Planes after Wreck of Freighter

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, Sept. 26 (AP)—Navy patrol planes reported tonight they had sighted five rafts bearing nine shipwrecked men, presumably survivors of the 1,811-ton American freighter Libby-Matpe which went down yesterday in a hurricane off Arbus, Netherlands West Indies.

The rafts were tossing on seas too rough for the planes to attempt alighting and an effort was being made by a destroyer and coast guard vessels to reach the men.

Initial efforts to guide rescue vessels to the survivors were balked by poor visibility and the navy planes returned to their bases here at dark.

The rafts, carrying from one to three men each were sighted over an area of ten square miles north and west of Arbus.

The navy prepared to send out searching planes again at dawn tomorrow if the surface craft fail to find the men during the night.

Daylight Saving Will End Sunday

About 52,000,000 People Will Turn Their Clocks Back

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—That part of America on daylight saving time—about 52,000,000 people—can turn back the clock Sunday with full government sanction.

The Federal Power Commission said today that a survey of the power situation had uncovered no emergency justifying the continuation of daylight saving time as a measure to conserve electricity.

Consequently, it said, no area would be asked to keep its clocks an hour ahead of Standard time.

If a power shortage should develop to threaten defense production, the commission said, steps would be taken to bring that area under daylight saving time.

Baltimore & Ohio Operating Income Increases $2,576,717 for August

Heavy Traffic Volume Sets All-Time High, White Declares

BALTIMORE, Sept. 26 (AP)—Traffic volume in excess of estimates and a continued gain in passenger revenues boosted August net rail operating income for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to $5,000,036, an increase of $2,576,717 over the same month last year, B. & O. President R. B. White announced today.

Similarly, cumulative net operating income for the first eight months of the year showed an upward surge. The figure for the January-August period was placed at $32,991,383 compared with $17,161,613 last year, an increase of $15,829,770.

White said passenger revenues continued to show an encouraging increase, especially between Washington, and points west, and total revenues exceeded those of August, 1940, by more than thirty per cent.

Maintenance charges for both equipment and track were the largest for any month during the last eleven years, he declared, reflecting the current heavy repair and renewal program.

Unserviceable freight cars continued at the low level of about three per cent, the railroad president added. The renewals were ahead of schedule and new rail was put in as quickly as received from the mills. Some maintenance was delayed because of inability to get sufficient materials.

White stated the railroad established an all-time high record of 43.1 miles per car per day during the month and explained that this and other factors had the effect of increasing car available for loading on the B. & O. by about 7,000 during August as compared with the same month of 1940.

Duke and Duchess Stop in Baltimore On Way from Washington to Calgary

Spend Day and a Half Sightseeing in Nation's Capital

BALTIMORE, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Duchess of Windsor, at long last, came back to the city in which she was reared today—and proved that she hadn't forgotten it.

Standing on the rear platform of a train with the man who gave up the throne of England for her love, the duchess pointed out familiar buildings near the Pennsylvania railroad station to the duke.

The station is only a few blocks from the home where, as Bessie Wallis Warfield, the duchess lived with her mother in her sub-deb days.

Stop Five Minutes
The duke and duchess made only a brief appearance in Baltimore. They appeared on the observation platform of their car as the train pulled to a halt, and chatted during a five-minute stopover.

Curiosity seekers were barred from the train platform, but a crowd of several hundred persons—railroad employes and persons holding tickets on the train gathered across the tracks, a short distance away.

The duchess, dressed in a traveling suit of the familiar Wallis blue, apparently noticed the absence of the throngs which have greeted the couple since their arrival in the United States.

Asked by a photographer to wave, she asked:

"Who do you think we ought to wave to?"

"Anybody," the photographer said, and the duchess waved.

Pose for Pictures
The duke watched trainmen uncouple several cars to the rear of the royal cars and the couple obligingly moved to one side while workmen placed a "Liberty Limited" sign on the rear of the train.

Charges Hurdled At Investigation Of Film Industry

Racial Question Again Brought into Committee Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Amid a confusion of shouted charges and counter-charges, witnesses told the Senate Movie Investigating committee today that persons of German, Jewish or South Irish ancestry were not wanted as employees at the British purchasing agency here.

Senator McFarland (D-Ariz.) promptly denounced their testimony as "hearsay," deplored the injection of a "racial prejudice" issue into the hearings and said it was done to "insinuate against one of our great fellow countrymen."

Early in the day, McFarland read into the committee record letters from R. E. Campbell, acting British ambassador, denying a statement made yesterday by Senator Tobey (R-N.H.) that the purchasing agency bars Jews, South Irish and Germans from its employment.

Witness Supports Charge

The principal witness was Charlotte Pairo Oehlmann of the Boyd Secretarial School, which, she said, had sent the agency many employees. It was "true," she testified, that the school did not even send to the agency any young people of those extractions and that "such a policy" had been adopted at the "request of some one" in the purchasing office.

She made this statement in response to a question put by Senator Tobey but when McFarland cross-examined her, she testified that no one at the purchasing agency had told her directly that such was the case.

Nevertheless, she insisted that the agency wanted information as to whether prospective employees were of those ancestries.

The witness was preceded by an employee of the school, Mrs. Penny Todd Adams, who said that in supplying the purchasing agency with fifteen messengers recently, she had been told to inquire whether the applicants were of German, Jewish or South Irish ancestry.

Willkie again Accused

When McFarland persisted in denouncing what he called the injection of racial issues into the hearing, Tobey, who had brought the matter up, pointed at Wendell L. Willkie, counsel for the motion picture industry, and said that he had injected the racial issue on the opening day of the hearing.

Willkie promptly interrupted the proceedings to roar:

"Senator Tobey, that's amusing. I'll suggest that I lend you Darryl Zanuck to put on a real comedy. Zanuck had been on the stand earlier in the day in the subcommittee hearings to determine whether there should be an investigation of charges that the motion picture industry has been turning out propaganda movies designed to lead this country into the war."

In addition to Miss Oehlmann and Mrs. Adams, one of Senator Tobey's secretaries, Robert L. Heurieux, testified that he had brought the matter to the senator's attention originally. He is a neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Adams, he said, and got the story originally from them.

Fighting East of Kiev

While the battle for Leningrad thus appeared to be reaching a fury which even for that mighty struggle was extraordinary, the Soviet government asserted that its Ukrainian armies east of Kiev were maintaining a fierce and orderly resistance.

Specifically denied, as a "fresh Hitlerite fake," were German claims to the capture of many thousands of Russian soldiers in that theater.

In the far south, Major General Petrov, the defender of Odessa, wrestled the official Communist and government organs that the city still held firmly against every German and Rumanian assault, and estimated that attacking divisions had lost as much as three-quarters of their original strength.

"If they are to be effective, a chain of ships must be welded to link them to the mainland," he said.

The speeches were broadcast over a NBC network.

The present program of the Maritime Commission, Land said, contemplates the completion of approximately 1,200 merchant ships between now and the end of 1943—two ships a day during the next two years.

Ceremonies incident to the launchings will be conducted tomorrow in shipyards on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts. A message from President Roosevelt will be broadcast at each launching.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

A repetition in the Crimea of Nazi air invasion in the Crimea of Crete appears to be the greatest danger facing the Russians holding the Peninsula.

British concern over the situation on the Black Sea flank of the eastern battle line is well grounded. Should the Crimea fall into the German hands, they would have air and sea bases for a thrust into the oil-rich Caucasus.

Above all else in Russia Hitler is seeking access to those oil sources. Apart from his own urgent need for oil, the Russian war effort might be quickly bled white for lack of the vital fluid if the Caucasus source were cut off.

British Likely To Fight

That British forces from India or Egypt would be thrown in to aid the Russians in the Caucasus is a foregone conclusion. A route is available via Iran and the stake is great. There already are hints from London that British troops may be moving into the Eastern battle from Iran.

German capture of Sevastopol, main Russian naval base on the southwestern tip of the Crimean peninsula, would clear most of the sea route from Rumanian ports and the Danube delta for German use. Even if it did no more than shorten the supply lines for German forces on a wide sector of the Russian front, the conquest of the Crimea would be worth the cost of a major offensive.

Add the possibilities of using the Crimea as a base for a sea and air borne assault across the upper reaches of the Black Sea toward the Baku oil fields south of the Caucasus range and its strategic importance is doubled.

Problem For Hitler

Yet taking the Crimea against any substantial Russian forces holding its northern flank is a problem for Hitler's generals. Except for the Perekop isthmus, hardly five miles wide at its neck, there is no good land approach. Virtually all of the sixty-mile span between the Black Sea and the Sea of Azov is a tangle of lakes, estuaries or other waterways too deep to ford and too wide to bridge.

These Black Sea estuaries, forming the mouths of streams about Odessa, primarily account for the long stand of that besieged city against the German-Rumanian allies.

Only the Perekop isthmus and two knife-edge causeways actually connect the Crimea with the mainland. British experts estimate that

FLASHES OF ARMY LIFE

[By The Associated Press]
PORT DIX, N. J.—Cooks and bakers from Port Dix have proved that wars aren't the only things the U. S. army can win. They returned from the New Jersey state fair with five first prizes and three seconds, awarded for their pies, bread and baked beans.

WITH THE SECOND ARMY IN LOUISIANA—Morale is dangerously low among the mascots of the second armored division, Algernon, the alligator mascot of the Sixty-seventh armored regiment, has disappeared, and now Wack and Wacky the armadillo pets of the Sixty-sixth armored regiment, are A.W.O.L.

PORT BRAGG, N. C.—Among the 250,000 troops moving into the Carolinas for fall maneuvers, a survey disclosed, will be 2,203 soldiers named Smith, 1,240 named Johnson and 1,059 answering to the name of Jones.

JEFFERSON BARRACKS, Mo.—Pvt. Clarence Bauer expected some sympathy when he went home with the story of a reprimand he had received from acting First Sgt. Leo Versage. Instead his mother gave him a box of candy to present to the sergeant. "I've been trying to make you mind for eighteen years and I know what a job it is," she said.

WITH THE SECOND ARMY IN LOUISIANA—The current hero of the Second armored division is Pvt. Gerald (Cast Iron) Sloan of Greer, S. C. He recently consumed nineteen bananas and one large onion, raw, in four minutes flat.

not more than four German divisions are engaged.

There is no room along the Perekop isthmus for the Germans to deploy even that force. If the Nazis have thrown 70,000 men into the attack, they must be massed targets for the converging fire of Russian guns around the south end of the isthmus.

Backing up Russian air forces in the Crimea or in the defense of Rostov would seem a logical procedure for the Royal Air Force. That is the approach to the Caucasus and its oil.

The crux of this war is oil. Lack of a sufficient supply could shatter Hitler's victory dreams even if he added all European Russia to his conquests.

Thousands See Duke And Duchess in Capital

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—The vacation-bound Duke and Duchess of Windsor waved farewell to the capital this afternoon from the rear platform of a private railroad car which will carry them on the next lap of their trip to the duke's ranch at Calgary, Alberta.

Their departure ended a day and a half of visits, sight-seeing and engagements in the course of which thousands of Washingtonians gave them a tumultuous reception. At the station to see them off, besides thousands of the public, were the duchess's aunt, Mrs. Buchanan-Merriman; a few friends, officials of the British embassy and of the State Department.

The duke, who is governor of the Bahamas, made his last calls at the war department where he conferred with Secretary of War Stimson and at the navy department where he talked with acting Secretary James V. Forrestal.

Government clerks lined curbs and the corridors of both buildings, where he stopped. A smaller group of sightseers applauded him when he made an unscheduled stop at the stately Lincoln Memorial.

The duke, a diminutive figure in the shadow of the mighty, seated figure of Lincoln, stood silently with his hands clasped behind his back and read the Gettysburg address imprinted on one wall of the memorial.

"Marvelous, isn't it?" he murmured. "I had read it, but really—"

Pose For Newsreel

The duchess did not leave the embassy during the morning, and after the duke had rejoined her they posed for newsreel cameras in the embassy garden, the duke expressing appreciation for a good time in America and for the aid the United States has sent to Britain.

Later, they received several friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Roberts, Jr., of Atlanta, and Lady Mountbatten, wife of the commander of the British aircraft carrier Illustrious, and her daughter.

Power Shortage Eased

The power commission said the daylight saving program in the southeast had contributed materially to easing the power shortage and providing more energy for defense production. Meanwhile, rains throughout the area have replenished storage reservoirs behind power producing dams.

Engineer Is Held On Fraud Charge

George E. Stone Accused of Trying To Forge $328,000 Bond

BALTIMORE, Sept. 26 (AP)—U. S. Commissioner James K. Cullen today released George E. Stone, contracting engineer, under $10,000 bail for grand jury action in the District of Columbia on a charge of forging or attempting to forge a $328,000 contract performance bond.

The government contended the alleged action occurred in connection with a defense housing project at Anacostia, D. C.

Government witnesses testified Stone had letterheads printed in the name of "T. Homer Jamison" of Hagerstown, and told government officials he had obtained the contract bond through "Jamison," whom he said was an insurance agent for the Phoenix Indemnity Company.

Phoenix company representatives denied any knowledge of "Jamison," and said the signatures of the company's officers on the bond were not valid.

Carl W. Hughes, federal works agency special investigator, testified Stone told him "Jamison" after the contractor sought the performance bond through the New York company.

Stone's attorney, George Farber, appealed for dismissal of the case, contending there was no evidence that Stone was the person who forged the bond.

Cullen, however, said "the impression left on me is that he is not only an aider and abettor, but that he is the one and only; he is the whole works. I have no sympathy for him."

Berlin Statement

bearing the cachet of the high command, were distributed tonight:

Repulse Red Attacks

Repulse of Russian tank-supported counter-attacks in the north sector Thursday, with six tanks destroyed; silencing of certain Russian naval guns in Leningrad harbor and at Kronstadt by German artillery; destruction of nine Russian ships in Lake Ladoga by German planes, while the ships were trying to land troops and material; destruction of sixty-six Russian planes on the entire front Thursday.

Two official bulletins during the day laid stress almost exclusively on what the Germans say is their principal aim—annihilation of the Soviet armed forces. Berlin hailed the figure of prisoners taken in the Ukraine as the greatest total of prisoners yet claimed in any one offensive.

For days the Germans have been reporting the steady destruction of four Russian armies, contained in German pockets east of fallen Kiev.

Claim 574,000 Prisoners

Tonight's special communiqué said this destruction was nearly complete with 574,000 prisoners in hand and as yet incalculable booty.

Other German sources, dealing with the continuing fighting from Moscow south, said the German armies and air squadrons had dealt a telling blow to the rail and road systems by which Russia hoped to supply her still resisting forces. These systems are most dense in the conquered Ukrainian areas west and southwest of Kharkov, toward which the Ukrainian advance now is pounding. Roads in the zone of operations were described as poor.

With air squadrons relentlessly pounding the rail facilities of the Kharkov area, news agency reports said German and Allied troops had made additional territorial gains in the south, repulsing counter-attacks in which the Russians used both cavalry and tanks.

There were no reports of today's hostilities in the siege of Leningrad.

"Reuper told me that he had been especially trained in Germany for spy work in the United States and that his specific job was to secure defense secrets and create discontent and bad feeling in the whole defense industry," Nipken continued.

Nipken said that, on Reuper's instructions, he took microphotographs of drawings, blueprints and defense instruments and turned them over to Reuper, who, he said, sent the pictures to Germany via China.

"Then, later, related Nipken, 'Reuper told me that they had received the films in Germany and found them poor. They couldn't make anything out of the pictures we sent. They told me to get better photographing equipment.'"

Three Wounded by Bandit in Street

Gunman Captured after Running Battle with Ohio Policeman

Cincinnati, Sept. 26 (AP)—Bullets from a bandit's gun wounded two men and a woman on crowded downtown Sixth street late today as the man, caught in a $15 shoestore holdup, turned upon his police pursuers.

Ora Slater, veteran private detective who gained prominence by solving the bathtub murder of pretty Mrs. Frances Nesbitt at Troy, O., Feb. 26, 1926, was shot in the cheek and nose as he scuffled with the bandit a short time before the latter's capture.

Other victims were Edward Stoeckel, 34, mail carrier, and Betty Jane Mullen, 19, student nurse. Stoeckel was shot in the head; Miss Mullen in the chest. Both were reported in serious condition.

Is Paroled Convict

The 36-year-old suspect was quoted by Detective Chief Emmet D. Kirgan as saying he "just got out of Atlanta federal prison on parole" after serving a term for postoffice robbery at nearby Newport, Ky. He said his home was in Covington, Ky., across the Ohio river from this city.

Shoe store clerks told police the robber seized between $15 and $20 and was in the act of "covering" them for a getaway when Traffic Policeman Harry Smith entered, his own weapon drawn.

First Withheld Fire

Smith said he withheld his fire momentarily because of the crowds of office workers and late shoppers passing at the time, but as his quarry began firing, answered with one shot.

Slater said he was standing at the corner of Sixth and Walnut streets, near the store, when the bandit's suspect darted past. Slater scuffled with him. The thug's gun discharged, and he broke away.

299 Men and One Woman In Freshman Class at Maryland College

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 26 (AP)—One lone woman turned up today in a freshman class of 300 at the University of Maryland's College of Engineering.

She is Mrs. Miriam K. Gerla of Washington, 22-year-old wife of Morton Gerla, an employee in the Washington navy yard's division of designing and drafting. She plans to major in mechanical engineering.

The reason: Mrs. Gerla wants to learn to "speak engineering." When her husband's friends drop in for a visit "that's the only thing that's discussed," she said.

"It's going to be pretty hard," she admitted, "going to school and keeping house. But my husband has promised to help me with my studies and with the cooking, too. He's a good cook. In fact, he taught me how."

Mrs. Gerla was employed as a secretary in New York city for four years before her marriage. She believes her engineering training, together with her office experience, may enable her to help out with the family finances in case of necessity.

Another reason: Some day her husband may become a consulting engineer. Then she could be the other half of the firm.

Gerla graduated from College of the City of New York in 1937. The couple was married in October, 1937, moving to Washington shortly afterward.

Cudahy's Report Spurned by Welles

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 26 (AP)—John Cudahy, former ambassador to Belgium, asserted tonight that the U. S. State Department had deemed it "inadvisable" to accept a report from him on his observations during a recent trip to Germany which included an interview with Adolf Hitler.

"I had hardly landed in New York last June," he said in an address over the CBS network, "when I called the state department, but the acting secretary, Sumner Welles, gave me to understand that he thought it inadvisable to see me because of press speculation and so I have never reported on what I learned in Germany."

In an interview with Hitler published in this country, Cudahy quoted the German fuhrer as saying an invasion of the Americas was a military impossibility.

Referring to the World war, the former ambassador said that a long study of it by the state department in an effort to determine what prompted America's entry into it resulted in congressional enactment of the neutrality law.

Tavern Proprietor Slain by Bandits

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 26 (AP)—A West End tavern proprietor was shot to death today by two holdup men when he balked their efforts to take $2,000 in cash from his wife.

As the victim, John Thiel, 35, charged at the holdup men with a club he was met with a burst of gunfire which felled him, mortally wounded, at his wife's feet.

P. O. L. I. C. E.—Lieutenant George Schmozer said the bandits had been seated in a tavern booth and accosted Mrs. Thiel as she sat in another booth, counting the money. Thiel rushed to his wife's aid when he saw the men at her side with drawn revolvers.

'NICE WORK, OLD PAL'

Ronald Coleman receives a congratulatory kiss right in the eye from his three-month-old pup, Chub, after winning a lapel medal for writing the best letter on "Why I Own a Dog." The contest was sponsored by the Greenwich Village (N. Y.) Humane League. Chub's brother, Doc, is a bit too tired to express his sentiments. Ronald has seven other pups and their mother at his Jersey City, N. J., home.

3 Feared Drowned In Bomber Crash

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—The navy announced today that three persons were missing from a United States navy patrol bomber which was forced down in the Caribbean sea near St. Eu Statius island yesterday. Ten others were reported safe.

The patrol craft developed mechanical trouble while flying at 5,000 feet the navy said, and all those aboard parachuted except the pilot.

The pilot, Ensign Herbert Cordie Weart, a naval reserve officer, bailing the plane down to a safe landing on the ocean. The plane has been taken to St. Eustatius island.

The missing: William Kirby Smith, 23, aviation machinist mate third class, of Weston, Mass.; D. F. Arture, a civilian; Antonio Grillasca, a civilian.

Soldiers Entertained By Pastor's Daughters

EMMITSBURG, Md., Sept. 26 (AP)—Some men of the Fifty-seventh signal corps battalion from Camp Edwards, Mass.—with time on their hands—passed the home of the Rev. E. L. Higbee.

Two of Mr. Higbee's daughters, Mary and Helen, were playing a piano duet. One of the soldiers tapped on a screen and asked if they might listen a while.

"Come in and make yourselves comfortable," said the sisters.

Some of them joined in singing. Other soldiers stopped, too, and card tables were brought in for bridge. Mrs. Higbee rustled up some refreshments.

The men of the Fifty-seventh battalion broke camp the next day, but said they wouldn't soon forget Emmitsburg and the Higbees.

Frederick in Grip Of Water Shortage

FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 26 (AP)—A general survey of the drought situation in parts of Frederick county disclosed today a water shortage comparable to that of 1930 when the county suffered one of the severest droughts on record.

Numerous springs and wells in the Northern and Eastern district of the county have gone dry and in other sections many have reached a dangerously low level, the survey showed.

Water in Frederick city's Fishing Creek supply at midweek was ten and a half feet below the spillway crest, water superintendent William J. Davis reported, a new low level since the record decline of 1930.

The city's daily take from the Fishing Creek supply is about 1,500,000 gallons. The daily flow of Fishing Creek remained at approximately 500,000 gallons, unchanged from a week ago, Davis said. He added, however, that closing of canneries helped the situation materially.

Hagerstown Man Killed in Crash

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 26 (AP)—Thurman E. Finrock, 26, of Hagerstown was killed and two other persons injured today when their automobile struck a truck on Route 40 at South Mountain.

Islene Cannell, 28, whose left finger was amputated, and Mrs. Besie May Smith, 64, suffering fractures and shock, were brought to the Washington county hospital.

State Trooper M. M. Puncke said Finrock's car rounded a curve and hit a truck operated by Clarence H. Rudisell.

Montreal Cops Little World Series Opener

The score: COLUMBUS (A.A.) .. 002 001 030—6 9 1 MONTREAL (I.L.) .. 014 000 005—12 14 2 Columbus—Dickson, Gashler (3), Nahme (3) and Heath. Montreal—Macon and Howell.

Vagrancy Charges Reveal Story of Girl and Sailor

Seamy Side of Life in New York Revealed in De- tention Home

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—This is a story about Josephine Phillips—the Passaic, N. J., girl who slept in subways for a week—and about Bill, a sailor.

She told it today in the House of Detention where she was confined on vagrancy charges and Bill's was a happy story—except where Bill comes in—for it was about an unhappy home, work in a hotel mill, a love affair with a man who turned out to be married and a suicide attempt.

Finally, with $10 in her purse, Josephine, 18 years old, thin and pale, came to New York looking for work. Broke, and weary, she went to Central Park a week ago last Sunday.

"It was just toward dusk I'd been sitting there all day trying to warm up in the sun."

Then She Saw Bill

"When I looked up and saw a sailor standing in front of me, I jumped. He said 'hello' but I didn't answer. Then he sat down beside me and said 'you look hungry, like a starved kitten, I once found, I'll buy you a dinner.'"

"He had such a nice face. 'While I ate he told me all about himself. Before I knew it I was talking about myself. I told him everything—and he understood."

"He begged me to let him give me money for a room. 'Don't be a goof,' he said. 'I'll give you the money here and you can go and pick your own room. I don't want anything. I just want to know you've got a place to sleep.' But I wouldn't do that. He said, 'all right, I'll stay up with you all night. We'll walk the streets together.'"

Went Window Shopping

"That's what they did. They strolled along Fifth avenue, looking shop windows full of the good things of life. They window shopped. Josephine bought Bill a suit. He bought her a dress. They purchased furniture."

"Let's keep on pretending," Bill said.

"Dawn came. . . 'A lovely place.' "Then Bill said, 'let's have breakfast.' . . . Only we didn't eat much. We were too happy."

Bill's Ship Sailed

"They parted, agreeing to meet that night at the same bench. Bill didn't appear, but another sailor did with a note from Bill saying his ship was ordered to sail."

"I'm so worried about you, honey," Bill wrote on the paper, now crumpled and dirty from too much handling. "I'm afraid you'll die of pneumonia or hunger. But I don't blame you for not taking the money. I respect you all the more. Keep your chin up, honey. You'll make a go. You have what it takes."

"I was reading that when the cops picked me up," Josephine said, only she wasn't crying as she was when the police found her. She was cried out.

Georgetown Hoyas Defeat Mississippi

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Georgetown's Hoyas rolled over Mississippi Rebels, 16 to 6 here tonight in a thrill-packed football contest highlighted by a pair of third-period Georgetown touchdowns resulting from intercepted passes.

An estimated 25,000 spectators, one of the largest collegiate football crowds in the history of the nation's capital, witnessed the clash, which opened the season for both schools.

Georgetown struck for a score before the game was five minutes old when Quarterback

THE DAILY STORY

LAST OF THE MOB

Who Was There Left To Understand That He Came Back to Pay a Debt He Knew Would Be His Last?

By MARY JANE MADDEN

Abe was closing up his newsstand at the night. A chill wind swept around Congress street corner, ruffling up the few soiled papers. Beneath the yellow rays of the murky light, he gathered up his pen-cases.

"Got an evening News?" a passer-by called. Abe peered out into the street at the long, glinting car and hunched over to the occupant. "Yes, here y'are." The man handed him his money hurriedly and glanced up the street. Mrs. Bertolini's delicatessen window caught his eye.

"Your boy Joe—where is he?"

"Bertolini, huh? Ever heard of Joe Bertolini?"

Abe remembered well. "Yeah, one of old lady Bertolini's sons—the youngest. Ain't heard tell of him for a good many years, though."

The man turned off his motor. So that's his old lady's store. Is she in there?"

"Should be, mister. She never closes until 10 or so."

The man found Mrs. Bertolini crouching at the far end of the counter, listening to a little weather-beaten radio on the shelf. He spoke softly, afraid to startle her.

"Good evening. How's the doughnut department tonight?"

The wisp of a lady jumped slightly, retrieving the spectacles that had slid down her nose. "Oh, my woman sat rigidly forward, not breathing.

The stranger hesitated. "Well, it—it was in Frisco, a year ago. I was doin' fine then. Why, he even told me about you. He sure thought a lot of his mother."

Mrs. Bertolini's eyes were shining. "I knew it—Joey, he was the smartest of the lot. Such good grades as he got in school—and he even learned me things, too. Sometimes he made mischief, but it was because he had so much spirit. Joey was never a bad boy."

Her voice trailed off a little, as she remembered a grubby, smiling urchin. "He was always surprisin' me. Once he brought me a bunch of violets, the first he'd ever seen. 'Gee, ma,' he says, 'those swells grow these right in their back yards. They'll never miss 'em, and they'd look elegant on that dress.'"

She wiped her eye with the corner of her apron.

"Yeah, I know." The man seemed gruff, uneasy.

"Did he say what he was doin'—where he was goin'? When he left three years ago, he wrote pretty regular for a while. Then his letters dropped off. I—I know how boys are, when they're busy."

The man inspected his nails closely. "Well, you know how adventurous he was—and always wanting to help other people. It seems some big guy, a friend of his who had a plantation in South America, wanted him to go down there with him. He was having a lot of trouble with help, and figured Joe could give him a hand. He'll be makin' a lot of money one of these days. I'll bet."

Mrs. Bertolini was rocking furiously by this time, scarcely able to contain herself. "Oh, my," she crooned, "isn't it wonderful? And . . . and when will he come back?"

"Well, it's pretty tough gettin' started. And he wouldn't think of comin' back without a fortune to take care of you. That was his boast, wasn't it? Anyway, I'd give him another five years, if I were you."

Mrs. Bertolini sank back in her chair, drawn and tired. "Well, five years won't go so slow now. Now that I know he's . . . he's all right."

The man rose and started toward the door. "I'm in kind of a hurry. Got to catch a plane for the coast tonight. Take this—I want to do it for Joe."

Mrs. Bertolini looked down at the roll of bills in her hand. "Oh, no—I couldn't Mister—"

"Joe called me Spike. Y'see, Joe did me a favor once and this is my way of squarin' it. So long—see you on my way through again."

The door closed, and Mrs. Bertolini remained motionless, her lips moving slightly. "Thank you, Dios," she whispered, "for it is You who sent him." Then, startled: "But, Blessed Mother, the rolls!"

The next morning, Abe was laying out his stack of new dailies. A familiar face looked up at him from the first page of the edition. "S'funny—looks like that guy last night. SPIKE REGAN NABBED AT AIR-

PROPER AND IMPROPER TREE PRUNING

When removing large branches from a tree, two cuts should be made, if possible, instead of one.

Figure 1 of Today's Garden-Graph shows what often happens when only one cut is made. The weight of the branch splits off strips of the bark from the trunk of the tree itself.

clean cut can then be made at the trunk. Care should be taken in making the second cut to saw first on the under side of the limb until through the bark, then saw from the upper side.

Electron or Super-Microscope Proves Of Great Value in Field of Medicine

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

It was only about three hundred years ago that a Dutch diamond cutter named Janssen made a little convex glass that showed him astonishing anatomical details of flesh, plant fibers, insects and mouth scrapings. That simple microscope was slowly improved.

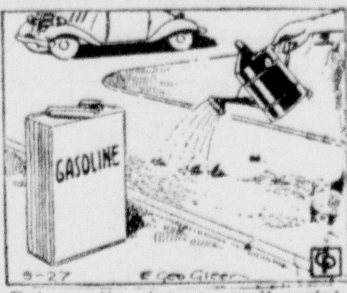

About 1820 construction of modern microscopes began. It was only seventy-five years ago Edward Bausch completed the first microscope made in the western hemisphere. Now there are over 50,000 microscopes in use in this country. These serviceable tools can show images 2,000 times larger than life. The famous "naked" human eye can see no object that is less than 1/125 of an inch long.

That is, the human eye can distinguish two points when they are .008 inches apart, and no more. Now comes the supermicroscope that can resolve two points 1/10,000,000 of an inch apart.

To put it another way, the ordinary microscope magnifies 2,000 times, the super-microscope 10,000 to 30,000 times. Photographic enlargements can be made 100,000 to 200,000 times life size.

One of the smallest objects that can be seen under the ordinary microscope is the tubercle bacillus. A group of them looks like little fine bits of hair clippings. I have just seen a photograph of a tubercle bacillus made by the super-microscope that is as big as my thumb!

WIFE PRESERVERS

Put gasoline into a small sprinkling can and pour it over any weeds in the driveway or gravel path. It eliminates the weeds and ants as well.

The super-microscope is known as the electron microscope. The source of light in electrons from a hot tungsten wire coated with salts, from which electrons emerge into a vacuum. They bombard and pass through something like X-rays the object to be examined. The possities of even larger magnifications can be prophesied from what we now know of the electron microscope.

Help to Science

What can be expected in medical science from this new microscope? Several years ago an amateur London microscopist announced the possibility of finding the cause of cancer with a microscope devised by him which enlarged many magnifications more than the ordinary microscope. But his instrument was a poor thing compared to the electron microscope. His idea, however, was sound. We can expect to see many details of the cell, not only of the cancer cells, but of normal cells by sufficient magnification.

Then the field of the viruses—those causes of diseases such as smallpox, chicken pox and infantile paralysis—which are now called ultra-microscopic—may be opened up and these objects hitherto elusive to any magnification of vision we possess may be revealed.

To see the protein molecule which must be large as molecules go, but still smaller than any germs, is another possibility.

Questions and Answers

The organization will not, of course, take any action or pass any resolutions. Its purpose is to develop thinkers in our democracy, he said. Students Told To Learn Their Draft Status

Distinction between Post- ponement and Defer- ment is Explained

Enrollment in college does not automatically deferment from the draft. State Selective Service Headquarters warned today as Maryland college men were advised to contact their local board and learn their draft status before returning to school.

Understanding of a recent amendment concerning the "postponement" of induction for certain college students has brought many inquiries to draft headquarters, Lt. Henry C. Stanwood, Selective Service Director for Maryland, reported today.

Regulations governing draft postponement of college students provide that under certain circumstances college students shall be granted a "postponement" in induction and not a "deferment" from military service, Colonel Stanwood said.

Explaining the college student status under the draft, Colonel Stanwood said:

Distinction in Terms

It is essential that the distinction between deferment and postponement of induction be clearly understood. A deferment is granted to a student because it will be in the national interest for him to engage in certain occupations upon completion of his training, whereas a student's induction is postponed solely to prevent undue hardships to the individual.

For instance, a student might be granted a short stay to take a college examination or to complete a college term which he started in another part of the country. In such cases, the student's induction would be postponed until a reasonable portion of such term has expired.

If a particular student is ordered to report for induction after the expiration of one college term, before the start of another term, there appears no question but that the student should be inducted into military service.

Under this interpretation, any college student who is a draft registrant and who is scheduled to be inducted into training before the middle of his first semester or quarter will be inducted into service regardless of whether or not he is attending college. However, if a registrant is not scheduled to be inducted until sometime in the second half of the semester or quarter he may be given a temporary postponement in induction to enable him to finish the semester. At the completion of the semester that registrant will be called to service.

Contact Local Boards

To prevent any misunderstanding, Colonel Stanwood advised all draft registrants who are to attend college to go to their local draft board and learn when he can normally expect to be called for induction. If the registrant learns that he is scheduled to be called within the next two or three months he should not return to school.

These regulations pertain mainly to students pursuing courses in college which are not recognized as those in which there is a shortage. For instance, individuals studying medicine, chemistry, chemical engineering, etc., are granted draft deferment since it has been decided that they will best serve the nation by completing their specific course in order to fill specific jobs in which there is a shortage of trained personnel.

ALVIN WILL LEAVE STATE POST OCT. 1

BALTIMORE, Sept. 26. (AP) — Chairman Harry O. Levin of the state tax commission said today he expected to step down from that position—which Governor O'Connor has not filled four weeks after Levin's resignation—on Monday.

Levin, Baltimore Republican and former political adviser to the late Governor Nice, resigned the state post to devote his time to private law practice.

To the vacancy thus created on the commission, the governor must appoint a Baltimore Republican, since the law requires that not more than two members of the commission be members of the same political party, and the other two members are both Democrats.

Levin said he had not been asked by O'Connor to serve after Oct. 1, but he indicated in his resignation he would be willing to do if asked by the chief executive.

He also said he had not been advised of the date of a proposed meeting of the commission with the board of public works, designed to study the fiscal problems created by the imposition of a greatly increased burden of work on the commission by the last legislature.

Although the new commission member must be a Republican, the chairmanship could fall to the Democrats if the governor promoted either of the other two members—J. DeWeese Carter of Denton or Dr. Thomas W. Koon of Cumberland—to that post.

A damage suit was filed in circuit court yesterday with no specified amount being asked by the plaintiff. The declaration states that on August 10, 1940, Charles S. Detrick Jr., was riding his bicycle on South Liberty street and a cab owned by Fred W. Jenkins, trading as the Astor Cab Company, which was operated carelessly, recklessly and in a negligent manner struck the plaintiff at the intersection of South Liberty street with Pershing street.

The bill states that Detrick was thrown violently to the ground and rendered unconscious. He allegedly suffered a brain concussion, shock to his nervous system and various abrasions. In addition the bicycle was declared to have been completely demolished. David Kauffman, attorney, represents Detrick.

Double Light for All Rooms Distinguishes This Cottage

Three basic requirements of the ideal small home are informality, proper relation to surroundings, and proper scale. This modern cottage exhibits all three to a marked degree. Economical construction is assured by simplicity of line and floor plan. Construction cost, exclusive of lot, is estimated at about $3,500. All rooms have double exposure, assuring adequate ventilation. The trellised side porch, large closed space, and large bedrooms are features to appeal to the housewife.

The plans contemplate wood frame construction with painted wood siding finish. No basement is planned. The design (4-ga-4) is by Smith and Daves, Atlanta architects. Plans for the home are available at many home-finance institutions associated with the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Popp. She charged desertion in her bill of complaint filed Thursday. William R. Carscaden, attorney, represented the plaintiff while Charles G. Watson, attorney, was counsel for the defendant.

Husband Wins Divorce
John W. Dennison was granted an absolute divorce from Phyllis C. Dennison on charges of desertion. The couple was married in Washington, D. C., in 1936 and the defendant allegedly deserted him in February, 1939. Associate Judge William A. Huster signed the decree which provided for payment of the court costs and suit by the plaintiff.

Emma Virginia Valentine was granted an absolute divorce from Charles William Valentine on a charge of cruelty. The father was granted custody of two minor children and ordered to pay the costs of the suit by Associate Judge William A. Huster. William R. Carscaden, attorney, represented the plaintiff while George R. Hughes was counsel for the defendant.

One Divorce Action Filed
Custody of two minor children and an absolute divorce was granted to Rosetta Sensel from Henry J. Sensel. A suit for divorce was filed yesterday by Gayle Yvonne Kaufman against James D. Kaufman, a non-resident. The bill of complaint, docketed by Morgan C. Harris, attorney, alleges the defendant deserted his wife less than three months after their marriage on June 6, 1937.

Gets Virginia Divorce
Mrs. Ruth Lee Andrews, 609 Frederick street, has been granted a divorce from Floyd B. Andrews by Judge Philip Williams, in the Corporation Court of Winchester, Va., on grounds of desertion. She also receives alimony and the full custody of their son, Robert.

Last McKain Registers At Fairmont State

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Sept. 26. (AP) —Patty, the last of the McKains, has registered as a freshman at Fairmont State Teachers college, completing the matriculation here of all eight children of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McKain of Monongah.

Few have been the years that the school has been without a McKain since Charles registered in 1921, and the places they took in college athletics and other activities added to the prominence of the name on the school records.

Besides Charles McKain, who is now a resident of Pittsburgh, Pa., there have been Margaret, now Mrs. Fairfax Brown of Elkins; Andrew, who died recently; Anne and Helen, who teach in Monongah; Jean, now Mrs. Bernard Kearns of Monongah; and James, who works in Fairmont. Patty McKain, the eighth and last, expects to remain in school until 1945.

Two Youths Arrested

Two local youths were arrested yesterday by local police in the sixth of a wave of service station robberies in the past two weeks.

The boys admitted to officers that they had broken into the Texaco service station, First and Arch streets, and had taken a box that usually contained the money, but that, at the time, was empty.

Big League Players Autograph Balls for LaSalle High Bazaar

Baseballs bearing the autographs of major league stars will be exhibited at the annual LaSalle bazaar, October 27 to November 1, at the K. of C. home, North Mechanic street.

Twelve major league clubs already have sent in autographed pellets, the latest gift being from Clark Griffith, president and owner of the Washington Senators.

Approximately seventy-five gifts have been received from out-of-town firms for the big event. Turkey suppers will be served on the first three nights of the bazaar. At last year's event, 1,000 turkey suppers were served.

The sum of $1,400 was realized from the 1940 bazaar for the replacement of laboratory equipment, upkeep of the school and athletic paraphernalia.

Committees for the bazaar will be completed at a meeting of the LaSalle Parent-Teacher Association next Wednesday evening at Carroll hall.

Gateway Chatter

Individual church will call its own members together at "a table 25,000 miles long." Twenty-five percent more communicants than at last year's services are expected.

World-Wide Communion Sunday will again be made the occasion for a nation-wide appeal on behalf of the sufferers of war. Many churches will cooperate in the appeal being directed by the Committee on Foreign Relief Appeals in the Churches, which promotes and coordinates the foreign relief work of denominational committees.

Commenting on the communion, The Federal Council Bulletin stated in the September issue:

"The observance of World-Wide Communion Sunday may be a factor of unimagined importance in our thought and work during the coming months. The experience of the sacrament requires humility and is conducive to humility. We are concerned with what God has done and continues to do for us, not with what we can do ourselves. In such a setting, the awareness of fellowship with the millions around the world who partake of the same sacrament will be an awareness of fellowship which transcends the world, the community surviving wars and tensions. Church unity and cooperation based thereon will be sound in the parish, the local community, the nation, the world. It will be of God."

A Ride in a Paper Boat

By MARIE BLIZARD
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS
Leaving New York for Miami to marry a girl, HALLIE SINGLETON, a fashion model, reminisces about the time, six years before, when she was only 21 years old and had just met ERIC ADAMS, a young would-be actor. She remembers how SHEILA SHERMAN, a chorus girl and friend of Eric's, appeared on the scene.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
THERE WERE TWO letters for Hallie in the morning. There was a warmly worded answer to her note to Winthrop, thanking her for her letter and wishing them both a happy New Year. And there was a letter from her mother, telling her that she was glad she was happy and signed, not "Mum," but "Ann Singleton." It was just the more chilling to Hallie that the icy-mouthed out-of-doors.

It was a cold and bitter winter. The unemployed walked the streets of cities and towns alike. The bank moratorium had put a stop to the widespread closing of banks, but the tragic aftermath of the financial collapse of banking institutions throughout the land was everywhere evident. Except, apparently, to the little group which made up Eric and Hallie's world. For them, there existed only the sphere of their little world. And there, it was all right—for those who were working.

January, February and March were like the three months that preceded them for the young Adamses. The apartment echoed with the constant ringing of the telephone, with the excited "Darling" of high, musical, theater cultivated voices. The "Come in for cocktails" and supper invitations out in a stream and were immediately accepted.

Pearl complained that the laundry had made it necessary to buy new household linens. Hallie ordered them by telephone, adding, without even thinking about it, that they were to be charged.

The crimson lounge needed a slip cover if it was to be protected against the assault of constant party use, but Hallie needed some new spring clothes. Just a couple of little dresses and a coat and a hat or two. She bought them at a smart shop where Glory and Christine bought their clothes and where credit was offered on a silver salver.

Hallie took the unpaid bills out of the pigeon hole in her desk and thrust them into a drawer. She didn't like looking at them, and there wasn't enough room for them anyway.

She was glad she'd bought the bottle green coat with the dashing green and raspberry print the day she met Sheila Sherman.

At first she wasn't sure it was Sheila. The girl in a neat black tailored suit with a huge scarlet sombrero on her dark head, looked quite different from the girl dressed in organdie on a summer afternoon.

But instantly when their eyes met, Hallie remembered. She was the first to speak. "Hello," she said cordially. "I'm Hallie Singleton—Hallie Adams. Don't you remember? You came—"

"It's a small world, isn't it?" the other girl said.

Hallie said, "Yes, awfully," and wished she had merely bowed and gone on. She couldn't think of anything else to say, nor could she merely bow then and go on. Besides, Sheila obviously wanted to talk. Hallie waited.

"So you married him after all," Sheila said.

It wasn't at all what Hallie had expected her to say.

She managed to get an infection that expressed surprise in her, "Yes."

"I wasn't asking. I knew," Sheila said. "Didn't Eric tell you I sent best wishes?"

Hallie murmured, "That was awfully kind of you," as if Eric had told her.

"Your mother came to see me," Hallie felt her cheeks flush with agonizing embarrassment for her mother.

"That's why I was really surprised that you married him. I let her have it, straight from the shoulder."

Hallie said, "There isn't very much point in discussing it now, is there? . . . After all, it was really all over between you and Eric."

"Almost," Sheila said. A look of respect came into her eyes. "I've got to hand it to you, Miss . . . Mrs. Adams. I didn't think girls like you had enough stuff to leave what you had for what you've got."

Abruptly, Hallie said, "I'm afraid I shall have to be going. Goodbye, Miss Sherman."

Sheila did not move away. "Tell Eric hello for me, will you? I saw him in his show. He's all right. Tell him I'd like to have him catch mine. And you might tell him that I've signed a five-year contract with Jake Oberman." She smiled at her.

Hallie usually had her hair done on Friday, but her meeting with Sheila Sherman was on Thursday. She went to the hair dresser on Thursday afternoon before she met Eric after his matinee.

They always went to Sardi's for dinner on Thursday because almost everyone who "was anyone" dined there between matinee and evening performances.

On her way to meet him at their usual table, Hallie gave herself more than a passing glance in the foyer mirror. Hair, perfect; makeup, perfect; hat, sily and saucy and chic.

Eric's eyes were appreciative when she came toward him. He said, "You're pretty cute, Mrs. Adams. I like your hat. You know, Hallie, you're getting to be a well-dressed girl."

"Oh, that reminds me," she said casually, as she drew off her gloves. "I saw someone else today who was surprisingly chic. I ran into Sheila at Saks."

"Sheila?" Eric said without looking up from the menu.

"Um hum. We had quite a little chat."

"Did you? How about deviled crab for you?"

Hallie let out the breath she had been holding. "I always like it," she said. "Sheila said for me to say hello for her."

"Okay, it's said. Think I'll just have a sandwich. Suppose you know what happened to Sara."

"Miss Cornell? No, what, Eric?"

"Suddenly went completely to pieces at the end of the first act. Hysterics and what-not. Jane Underwood had to finish it."

"Oh, Eric, what could have happened?"

"We don't know. Plenty of excellent back stage. Enough doctors to staff an army unit." He sounded worried.

"How was Jane in the role?"

Hallie asked anxiously.

"Terrible," Eric answered morosely.

"But if Sara is going to be out of the show, how will that affect its future?"

"There's nothing to worry about, I believe. Meyerling, I hear, sent a wire to the coast to get Harriet Cummings to fly back and take over. She's a good actress. Has a name almost as big as Cornell's. Anyway, the show's established. Sold out two months in advance." The last was added to reassure himself.

Hallie breathed a sigh of relief. A prolonged illness of a name star was a serious matter in the lives of her supporting players. But if Harriet Cummings took over—

Jane Underwood played the role for three weeks. Harriet Cummings was detained in Hollywood to finish a picture. The show continued to be sold out—for the remaining weeks of the two months. Beyond then, the sale was thin.

Eric took the bills out of the drawer one night and looked at them anxiously, thrusting them back when Hallie came into the room.

Harriet Cummings' three weeks were up and she wired that she had to stay in Hollywood for re-takes.

That night the notice went up on the boards. The show was closing on Saturday. The newspapers said the management had announced that it would reopen possibly later in the season, when Miss Cornell had recovered from a breakdown due to overwork.

Eric hated to tell Hallie, but he did it with a good show of bravado, saying, "I'll be sure to get something quick. In the meantime, there's a lot of radio work around. This is the merry-go-round, honey. Can you take it?"

"Of course I can," she assured him. "We'll retrench for a little while."

How to put new glamour in Ground Meat

Ask your meat-man for—1 1/2 lbs. ground sirloin beef, 3/4 lb. ground pork, 1 lb. ground veal.

Break up 2 large slices bread and thoroughly moisten with 3/4 to 1 c. milk. Add ground meat, 1 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. black pepper, 1 tsp. grated lemon rind, 1 tsp. grated onion, 1 egg, unbeatened, 2 tsp. chopped parsley, 2 tsp. flour. Mix thoroughly; shape into roll. Bake in uncovered roasting pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 1/2 hrs.

When loaf has baked 1/2 hr. pour over it a 104-oz. tin tomato puree mixed with 3/4 c. water (or use No. 2 tin strained tomatoes instead of both puree and water). Continue baking 1 hr. longer, basting with tomato puree several times. Serve with puree, 8-10 servings.

Granberries and crisp water cress make attractive garnish.

Ham Shortcakes

Little ham shortcakes are a delightful way to serve leftover ham loaf. Slice the cold ham loaf into convenient sized pieces. Heat the slices in a rich cream sauce and serve on baking powder biscuits. Decorate the top biscuit round with a sprinkling of cooked peas or cooked carrot strips.

Fancy Desserts Are a Swell Reason For Having Your Friends In for a Party

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
AP Feature Service Writer

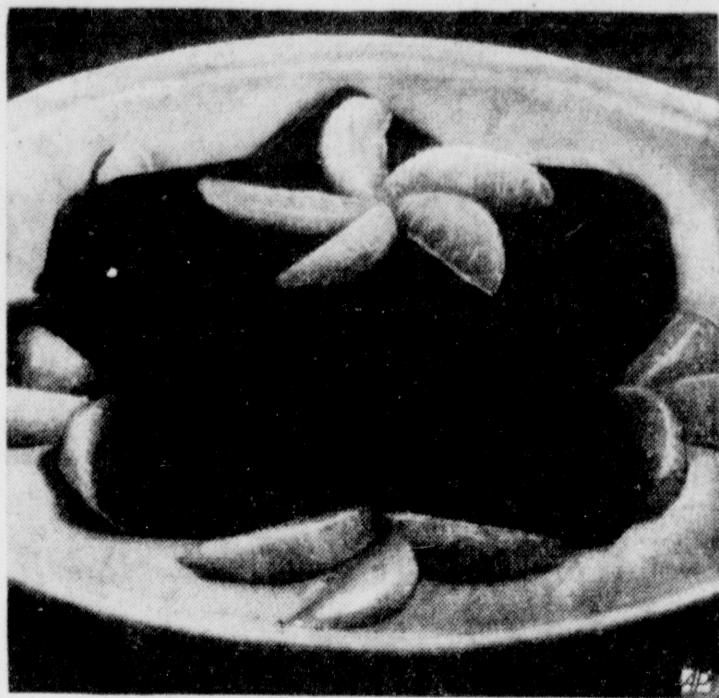

Dessert parties are in tune with the times as money-savers and are a good reason for having an informal evening's get-together. Men will enjoy them as well as women, for dessert and a hot beverage are served upon the arrival of the guests. The hostess can then enjoy the party without hurry trips to the kitchen. The guests will like it because they won't have to prepare a dessert for the meal they've had at home.

If it's to be a supper or dinner

Orange Juice Surprise
To make the gelatin base take:
1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
Soak 5 minutes. Add:
1/2 cup orange juice, heated but not boiled
Stir to dissolve gelatin. Add:
1/2 cup orange juice, not heated
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
Teaspoon grated orange rind
Sprinkling salt.
Chill in star shaped or other fancy mold.
After the gelatin has been removed from the mold decorate it with fresh orange sections.

affair, friends can chip in with the work and expense, each couple bringing one course.

Here are rich, inexpensive desserts that will insure the party's success:

Orange Juice Surprise is light and zesty.

PUMPKIN PIE MONTROSE: To make enough for 6 generous portions, mix 2 cups cooked, strained pumpkin with 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon each of cloves, nutmeg and ginger, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 3 tablespoons butter. Cook slowly and stir constantly until very dry and mealy. Stir in 2 beaten eggs, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Pour the filling into rich pie crust in deep pan. Bake 10 minutes in a moderately hot oven (about 400 degrees F.), then lower to a moderately slow (about 325 degrees F.) and bake 50 minutes. Serve plain or lightly spread with whipped cream, flavored with a dash of cinnamon and 1/4 teaspoon orange extract.

CHERRY SURPRISE: Mix together 3 cups pastry flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup sugar and 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg. Cut in 5 tablespoons shortening with a knife. Add a beaten egg (or 2 yolks) and enough milk for a soft dough. Pat the dough out until it is half an inch thick. For the cherry part mix 3 cups seeded red cherries, 1/2 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup water or cherry juice and 3 tablespoons butter, melted. Pour into shallow

Waste Products Can Give Zest To Your Meals

Garden and orchard products that often go to waste at this season can be used to good advantage in making pickles and relishes, says Miss Margaret McPheeters, nutrition specialist of the University of Maryland Extension Service.

Pickles and relishes have little food value, she states, but their spicy, pungent flavor and aroma stimulate the appetite and give zest to the most commonplace meal. "We all crave at times the spicy flavor and appetite-whetting qualities of such products," she declares.

Many Varieties
Miss McPheeters points out that there are many varieties of pickles and relishes, their predominating flavor determining the type, such as sour, sweet, dill, mustard, or spiced.

Pickles can be made of either fruits or vegetables. In general, the whole product or large pieces are used and often only one product, such as cucumber or peach. Sweet pickles are preserved with sugar, vinegar and usually spices, though brine cured pickles may be made into sweet pickles. Sour pickles are preserved in brine, or vinegar and brine, with spices usually added.

Do Four Things
Relishes are usually made of vegetables, especially a combination of vegetables chopped fine and preserved with salt, sugar, vinegar and spices. The vinegar, salt, sugar and spices are used as a preservative, to modify flavor and aroma, to preserve texture and to control fermentation. For color, use white vinegar and for flavor and aroma use cider vinegar. Salt hardens and makes firm vegetables. Brown sugar, honey and molasses add variety in sweet flavor. A combination of several spices gives a more satisfactory flavor and aroma. Whole, rather than ground spices are advised, tied loosely in a bag so they may be removed when desired to prevent a dark product and strong flavor.

A Tempting Dish Of Apple Fritters
Now that fall and the year's bumper apple crop are both coming in, here's a tempting dish for any fall meal. Pare and slice desired quantity of apples. Sprinkle slices with sugar and allow them to stand in cool place for an hour. Make a batter from one cup flour, two tablespoons sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two beaten eggs, one grated lemon rind and one-half cup milk. Dip the slices of apple in the batter and fry them in deep fat. Sprinkle with powdered sugar before serving.

A Pleasing Departure In Escalloped Cabbage

Housewives who will can take advantage of the different ways of preparing foods to vary their daily menus. Escalloped cabbage and spaghetti is one of the most pleasing departures from the usual way of preparing and serving cabbage.

Cook one cup spaghetti until tender. Cook four cups shredded cabbage for five minutes. A quarter of a pound of bacon cooked to crispness, one-half cup grated cheese, one-and-one-half cups milk, two tablespoons flour, and two tablespoons bacon fat complete the list of ingredients. Cream flour and bacon fat, and add it to hot milk. Then alternate all the ingredients in a baking dish, saving cheese for covering layer, and bake in moderate oven until lightly browned.

HERE ARE SOME USEFUL KITCHEN SUGGESTIONS

Canned food that spoils should be buried with one tablespoon of lye to each quart — to keep animals away from it.
Moist table salt will remove egg yolk from silverware.
Use lard for greasing cake tins.
The salt in butter causes the cake to burn or stick to the tin.
Baked products made with honey retain their moisture longer than those without it.

For a delicious fruit salad, combine orange and grapefruit slices with ripe bananas and top with a scoop of lemon ice.

Dry salt sprinkled immediately on new fruit stains will prevent them from being permanent.

Lard has the greatest shortening power of any of the plastic edible fats.

Accurate measuring spoons, cups and cans not only give better results, but they save food materials.

Parents Should Arrange Chores For Lazy Sons

First Problem Is To Study Things in Which They Are Careless

By GARRY C. MYERS Ph.D.

"Dear Dr. Myers—My boy, 13 has done poor work all through school. I have tried to cooperate with his teachers, but they do not seem able to get him to settle down. He could do the work if only they could get him to concentrate. He is a 6A pupil but is only doing 6B work."

"I took him down to what is called the Children's Centre. I paid $10 and had him tested, and they said that absolutely he should be up with his grade. He is still a poor reader and has been with a slow group of children all through the grades."

"I also interviewed his principal. He gave him a test and came to the conclusion that the boy's trouble is carelessness. Maybe you can help me with my boy. I am enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it and will appreciate a personal reply."

Doctor's Answer

You write that the clinic says your boy should be up with his grade, and that the school principal says the causes of his trouble are laziness and carelessness. We wish the clinic had given you a program to help him learn to read better

CONSERVE YOUR TRUMPS

BUNCHED trumps in the hand of one of the defenders can sometimes turn the most conservative contract into a great problem. It often is best, in such an extremity, to discontinue leading trumps as soon as you know the situation, and instead, work on other suits to make the opponent use up his in the early stages.

He then changed plans immediately. Since East had failed for the gag of covering the club J with the K, South led his heart 6 to the A and called the club Q for a discard of the Heart J, eliminating his only loser in that suit.

Next he ruffed the club 6 with the spade 2 and led the diamond Q, which West trumped with the spade 6. He returned the spade J to kill the 10, the Q winning. On the diamond 2, West discarded a heart, the A winning. When the diamond 6 came back, East playing the 8 and South the J, West put on his spade 7. The heart K was returned, but South ruffed it with the 4, cashed the Spade K and then gave up the diamond 5 to the K, making his contract.

Your Week-End Lesson
Why would North be making a bad bid if, over South's 1-Spade, he bid 3-Diamonds? What bid would be better and preferred by most advanced students? What principle underlies the preference for that bid as against the jump in diamonds?

and that your school would assume responsibility for carrying out this program.

It is so easy for the school or home to describe a child who does poor work as lazy or careless, but we can't wash our hands of responsibility with such words. Your boy is probably both lazy and careless, but if he is, what is back of such traits? Just to nag at him about his being lazy and careless gets nowhere but makes him more lazy and careless and suggests to him that he always will be so.

Home Chores

The first problem is to study the specific things in which he is lazy and careless, or more so than in others, at home and at school. Parents might profitably check on him at home to make sure he has a few jobs he can't escape and must do up to an acceptable standard he understands and can reasonably attain. Also he should be required to be home on nights before school and do his lessons at a regular time and place.

The central problem is to help him gain more success at books. Like you and me, he will work harder as he has more success. To this end he must learn to read better. He will gain most in reading skill as he reads more from books and magazines much easier than those for his grade. Get him to read from such sources to you at night in exchange for your reading from his school books to him. You should have his eyes tested. I am enclosing a copy of my "Home Helps for Poor Readers." Anyone may have a copy of it by writing me at 235 East Forty-fifth street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. I have a maid but my 2-year-old daughter keeps me busy amusing her all her waking hours. A. Post a schedule on which you list the periods (first from 5 to 15 minutes, later much longer) during which you will be busy and not go to the child or amuse her. Follow this schedule and your child, with toys available, will learn by and by to amuse herself.

Q. What are some good ways to bring up a child to be selfish? A. Never say NO to him and seldom mean it when you do. Let him have nearly everything he wants, which you can give him, make many self-denials to give him what he does not need, and shield him from hardships and self-sacrifice.

Price Reporters Don't Get Paid

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 26 (AP)—Director W. W. Armentrout of the Agriculture department's division of consumer research wants to make it clear that his price reporters do not get paid for their work. Armentrout said he already has received applications from at least five persons seeking such jobs, apparently under the impression that with the jobs went salaries.

The price reporting program will require nearly 2,500 assistants—most of them from the American Legion auxiliaries, the state federation of women's clubs, the West Virginia Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, home economics teachers and similar groups.

They will keep the committee informed of price trends in an effort to guard against unjustified price increases, but the job will require only about fifteen minutes time twice each month, Armentrout said.

LeCompte Sounds Advance Warning To All Hunters

Those Failing To File Report of Their Bag To Face Payment of Fine

While the upland game season does not get under way in Allegany county until November 1, E. Lee LeCompte, state game warden, reminds hunters that they must file a report of their bag of game and animals in the state by January 15, 1942, or face payment of a fine.

The purpose of the reports, according to a spokesman for the state game department, is not to check up on the observance of the daily bag limits by the hunters, but to obtain a more careful enumeration of the various species of game killed throughout the season and to get better estimate of their number in the state.

The plan was tried on a voluntary basis many years ago but failed because less than ten per cent of the hunters made any report. Authority was given by the recent session of the legislature to enact a fine of $2 for each hunter who fails to obey the law.

LeCompte explains that clerks of the court in the county seats have the stub of every license issued in the state, and that these are available to officials of the game department.

Failure to file the report will mean that the department will check over these lists and send a warning to the recalcitrant hunters. If nothing is forthcoming, a warrant will be sworn out and the fine levied.

"The hunter gets all the information needed when he purchases his license," LeCompte pointed out. "With his license he gets a card the size of a penny postcard with the names of the game on it. This is already addressed and all he has to do is to fill in the number of each species that he has shot and mail it in."

FOUR PERSONS ARE TREATED IN HOSPITALS FOR MINOR INJURIES

Bitten on the left foot by a snake as he was fighting fire, Eugene Crabtree, 15, Paw Paw, W. Va., received dispensary treatment at Allegany hospital today.

John Harley, 32, 171 North Mechanic street, suffered lacerations of the third right finger when a bottle exploded while he was at work at the Queen City Brewing Company plant, and received dispensary treatment at Allegany hospital at 6:40 o'clock last evening.

Donald De Moss, 10, Bedford, Pa., suffering a possible fracture of the breast bone, was admitted to Allegany hospital at 6:05 o'clock last evening. The injury was suffered in a fall from a tree.

Suffering a possible fracture of the right leg in a fall from the window of a Bradock road home as she was cleaning windows, Mrs. Molly Jordan, 2, Bedford street, was admitted to Memorial hospital yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock.

Swanton Man Drops Appeal from $25 Fine For Setting Woods Afire

A Swanton man convicted June 9 by Magistrate H. A. Lorditch of Oakland for maliciously and deliberately setting a fire in the woods near Swanton has dropped his appeal from a $25 fine and costs, according to H. C. Buckingham, district forester.

Ellis Harvey, about 25, was identified by two Westernport persons who saw him run from the woods where a fire had just blazed up. They followed the fleeing man and secured his automobile license number. This happened last April 20 and Harvey was arrested several days later by George Browning, district fire warden.

Neil Fraley, state's attorney for Garrett county, prosecuted the case while A. T. Matthews, attorney, represented Harvey at the trial.

Officials Silent On Celanese Negotiations

Unable To Report Progress after Day of Conferences in Washington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Labor department officials said today they were unable to report progress in their joint meeting with union and company representatives seeking to settle a dispute of growing from efforts of the CIO Textile Workers Union for a new agreement with the Celanese Corporation of Cumberland.

They added that this statement did not necessarily imply that progress was not being made.

"We simply have nothing to report, that's all," a spokesman declared.

The wage increases sought by the CIO union have not been announced, although one section of the agreement demanded was understood to be a union shop.

Labor officials said that they would make an announcement when and if developments warranted it.

Bridge at Luke Is Accepted

Extensive Repairs Have Been Made to Structure across the Potomac

The Interstate bridge over the Potomac river between Luke, Md., and Piedmont, W. Va., was formally accepted yesterday by the Allegany county commissioners and the West Virginia State Roads Commission after an inspection of the structure.

Extensive repairs have been underway for almost a year and final cost of the job is expected to be approximately $22,000, one county official said. The original bridge was condemned more than a year ago and plans for the repair work were held up while many details concerning a water line and gas line on the bridge were ironed out by representatives of Allegany county and West Virginia.

Those in the inspection party yesterday were Simeon W. Green, James Holmes and Patrick Stakem, Allegany county commissioners; John H. Carscaden, county roads engineer; James Stevenson, clerk to the commissioners; Douglas P. LeFevre and Leo T. Downey, district engineer for the Maryland State Roads Commission; and Henry W. Slaine, of the West Virginia Roads Commission.

Law Enforcement Conference Will Be Held Here

Paul M. Fletcher Will Be Principal Speaker at Meeting Monday

The regular quarterly police conference for law enforcement officials of Garrett and Allegany counties will be held at the post office here Monday afternoon, Special Agent in Charge E. A. Soucy of the Baltimore Field Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced yesterday.

Soucy said that the conference is a continuation of the FBI Law Enforcement Mobilization Plan for National Defense which was introduced last June.

Mayor Will Speak

The conference will open with Mayor Harry Irvine delivering an address of welcome.

The principal speaker will be Paul M. Fletcher, assistant states attorney, Cumberland, who will talk on the responsibility of law enforcement agencies and the general public during the national emergency.

According to Mr. Soucy, the FBI Law Enforcement Officers' Mobilization Plan for National Defense is intended to further develop friendly cooperation among federal, state and local law enforcement agencies in all phases of national defense, law enforcement, crime prevention and related activities.

Closed Session Planned

In the closed session of the meeting after the address of Mr. Fletcher, Mr. Soucy will discuss recent developments of the FBI Mobilization Plan. The police officials in attendance will have an opportunity to exchange their ideas and to discuss recent problems arising in connection with national defense in open forum discussion which will close the meeting.

Officials of all regular constituted law enforcement agencies in Frederick and Washington counties, together with interested members of their departments have been invited to attend the conference. Similar conferences in connection with the FBI Law Enforcement Officers' Mobilization Plan for national defense are being held in other principal cities of Maryland under FBI auspices. The various field offices of the FBI are holding these conferences throughout the United States at quarterly intervals.

G. Randolph Aiken, 38-year-old former assistant United States attorney, who was sent here several years ago to investigate the city handbill ordinance and visited Cumberland on several other occasions for compensation cases, was found dead in the garage of his home at Catonsville, Thursday, according to information received here yesterday.

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, last evening recalled that Aiken came here to investigate a complaint against the city ordinance relating to distribution of handbills, and added that the assistant United States attorney, after reading the ordinance, placed his stamp of approval on it.

Aiken's body was found by his wife, Mrs. Maude Aiken. Police said Aiken had apparently gone to the garage to work on his car, for its hood was up. He had fallen and struck his head on the floor.

A member of Bernard J. Flynn's staff for several years, Aiken recently resigned as assistant United States attorney to devote himself to private practice.

During his federal service Aiken was engaged principally in handling violations of the National Banking Act and defending tax suits brought against the government, as well as criminal and civil matters arising in the western counties of Maryland.

Before joining the federal service Aiken represented several surety firms and was frequently in courts in connection with claims on these clients.

AERIAL SALUTE—With "Old Glory" as its standard, the Randolph Texas Field Aviation Cadet Color Guard stands proudly at attention as a flight of 180-mile-per-hour advanced training planes swoop low at full throttle in aerial salute. The ninth and last class to graduate from the huge basic training school in 1941 will move on to advanced and specialized schools on Sept. 27. Later, as graduates, they will be commissioned second lieutenants and flying officers in the United States Army Air Force for duty with units of the Combat Command.

Model Airplane Meet Scheduled For October 29

Exchange Club Will Sponsor Indoor Event; Drive for Members Planned

Plans for the staging an indoor model airplane contest limited to stick models, gliders and u-controlled gas models Wednesday, October 29, were discussed Thursday evening at the Central Y.M.C.A. at a meeting of moderators of five schools and Brother Gerard, chairman, and C. Athey Murray, of the Exchange club's Model Airplane committee.

The site for the meet is undetermined but efforts will be made to secure the Port Hill high school gymnasium for the contest.

Announcement was made by the committee that a drive will be conducted in local schools for the purpose of increasing the local club's membership. Twenty members are needed to form a chapter and obtain a charter in the American Model Aeronautics Association and when this charter is obtained local club members will be eligible for competition in national events.

As a means of boosting the local membership Willis Roboson, of the Central Y.M.C.A., will give demonstrations of gas models at four different schools, as follows:

Ridgeley high school, September 30, 3 p. m.;
Allegany high school, October 1, 3:30 p. m.;
Port Hill high school, October 2, 3:30 p. m.;
LaSalle high school, October 3, 2:30 p. m.

Those attending the meeting were Harold Lynch, Cresaptown Junior high school; H. A. Thomas, Port Hill high school; E. P. Baldwin, Ridgeley high school; Brother Gerard, committee chairman, who represented LaSalle high school; C. Athey Murray, of the Exchange club committee; Willis Roboson, of the Central Y.M.C.A., and Cecil Parson, Allegany high school.

Commander Stambaugh, attorney of Fargo, N. D., was born at Abilene, Kan., July 4, 1890, a son of W. S. and Melinda Stambaugh. He is a law graduate of the University of North Dakota and has been active in his profession since 1913.

Stambaugh's legal career was interrupted by twenty-two months of service in the armed forces of the United States during the World War, thirteen months of this service being overseas.

He entered Camp Dodge Ia., as a private in September 1917, and was assigned to duty with the Third Hundred Thirty-eighth Field Artillery. He was commissioned as a Second Lieutenant of Field Artillery on July 12, 1918, while serving overseas.

He attended the Field Artillery School at Saumur, France. He was discharged at Camp Sherman, Ohio, on June 21, 1919.

Returning to Fargo after the war he resumed his practice of law and became active in The American Legion, joining the Gilbert C. Grafton Post No. 2. He served as vice commander of this post in 1930 and was elected post commander in 1931. Since 1932 he has been a member of the Department Executive Committee. He held the post also of Department Employment Officer in 1932.

Cumberland churches will join with thousands of churches the world over Sunday, October 5, in the simultaneous observance of the Holy Communion. The event will emphasize the increasing need of fellowship and Christian unity in this war-torn world.

Churches of many denominations will commemorate the first simple observance in the upper room, when Jesus instructed His disciples on the great task remaining before them, and enjoined them to love one another, even as He had loved them.

The service is sponsored by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America through its department of evangelism, in co-operation with national denominational offices and with affiliated state and local councils.

Dove Season Closed In Garrett, Allegany Counties, Smith Says

Fulcher P. Smith, a member of the Maryland State Inland Fish and Game Commission last evening called attention of hunters to the fact that there is a closed season on doves in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Smith said that E. Lee LeCompte, state game warden, neglected to exempt Allegany and Garrett counties in a bulletin issued earlier this week, and wished to call the attention of sportsmen to this fact.

The open season on doves in Maryland, September 15 to October 15, applies to all counties except the two in Western Maryland as a result of a law passed by the general assembly, Smith said.

Men from Three Counties To Be Inducted Here

New System To Be Inaugurated by Selective Service Officials

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 26 (AP)—Governor O'Connor announced tonight that 1,096 Maryland men would be required to report at army examination stations between Oct. 16 and 28 under the new delayed selective service induction system.

Heretofore, men found physically fit at the Baltimore induction station immediately were inducted into the army. Under the old system, some of those rejected at Baltimore already had quit their jobs and found it difficult to get them back.

The new system calls for the youths to report at one of two army examination stations—one located at Baltimore and the other at Cumberland—without severing their civilian connections.

They will return home immediately after their examinations. After an elapse of from ten days to three weeks, local draft boards will instruct those accepted to report on certain dates to army reception centers—at Ford Meade, Md., New Cumberland, Pa., or Camp Lee, Va.

Men from Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties will report to an army examination station at Cumberland. Youths from the remaining counties and Baltimore city will go to the examination station in the Fifth regiment armory, Baltimore.

Of the 1,096 men required to report for examinations, 683 are white and 413 negroes. Eighty-one from the three Western Maryland counties are to report at the Cumberland examination station, Oct. 28.

The remaining 1,015 men—607 the whites and 408 negroes—will report to the Baltimore examination station during the period.
